Late-blooming artist featured at the AJG Members Show

GEORGE FARRELL
Special to County Life

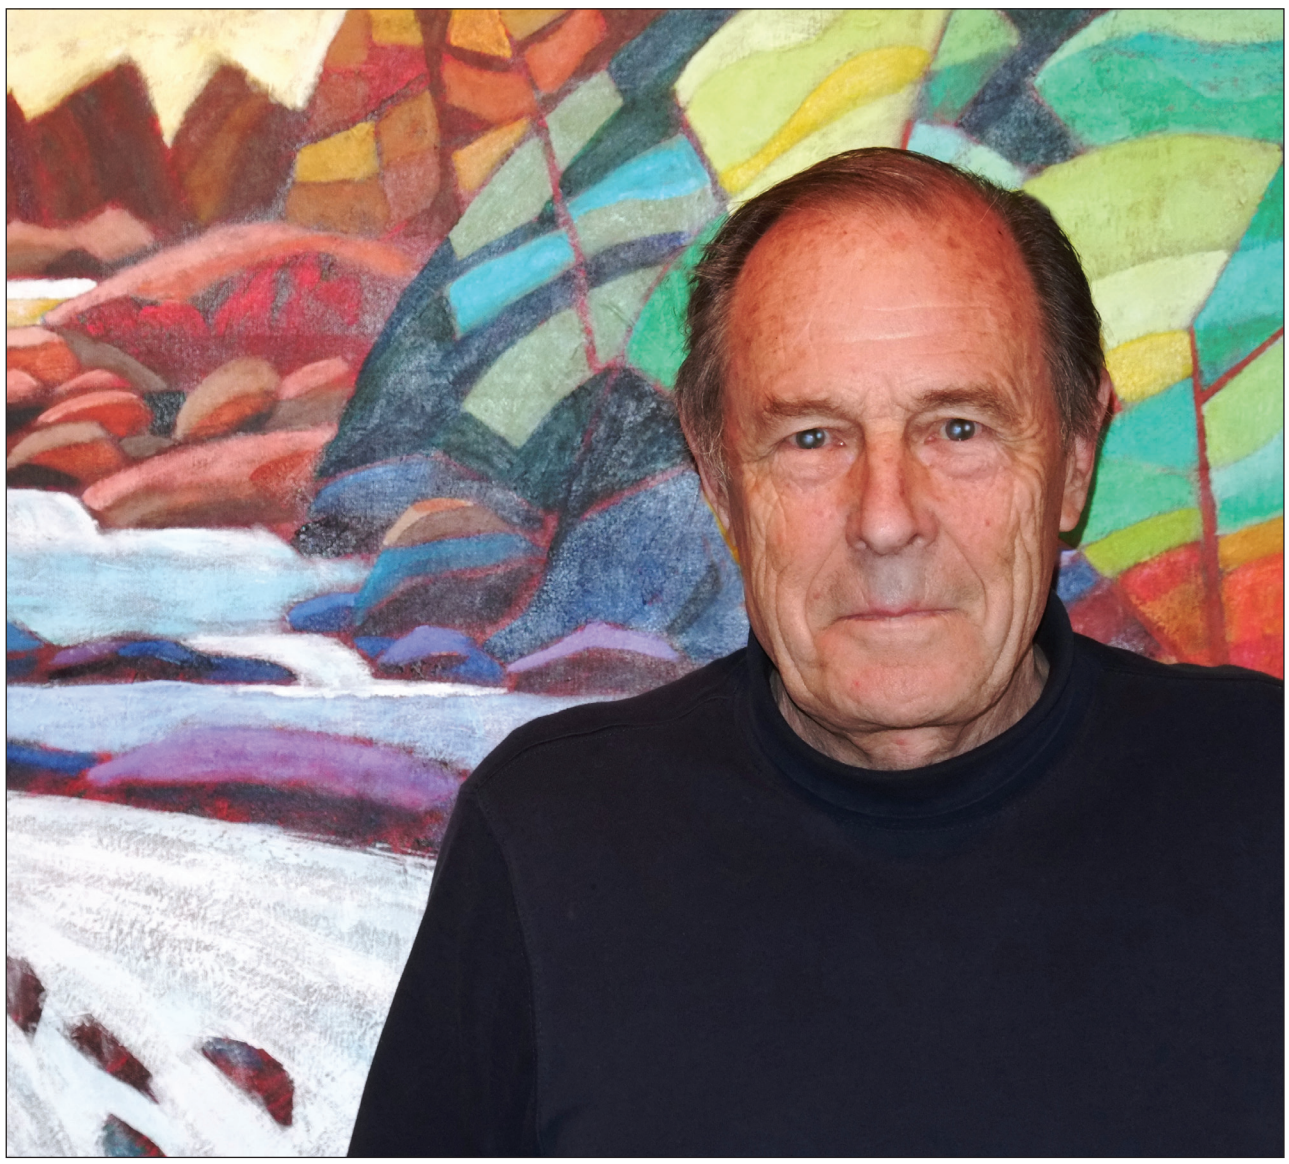
Yves Ameline is originally from the Brittany area of France. He first came to Canada in 1957 to attend Queen's University. It was there that he met Jane, who was to become his wife. After finishing at Queen's, he went back to France to complete his military service, but he realized that he'd fallen in love, not only with Jane, but with Canada too, and he came back permanently in 1967.

We've all heard the expression "it's never too late." In the case of Ameline, 81, the phrase fits perfectly, because after his retirement from the world of advertising in 1994, he decided he would become an artist. Yves and Jane had started cottaging in the Highlands in 1974 and by the mid '90s they were also taking classes at what is now called the Haliburton School of Art and Design.

"I am a pure product of the School of the Arts," Ameline admits, "I love the place." Yves cites artists John Leonard and Brian Atyeo, teachers at the school, as having the most influence on his development. With due diligence Ameline has become a proficient artist in his own right, with a distinctive style he calls Abstract Impressionism.

Even though Ameline has been a photography enthusiast for many years he does not use photographs from which to paint his acrylics.

"Photographs give me too much information," he says. "I'll look at photos, but I retain only the main elements of the scene and I paint as my mind sees it. It's my impression of what I see and remember, but it has nothing to do with the technique of the Impressionists. I'm concerned with the distribution of space and the distribution of light and dark areas."



Yves Ameline and Chutes River, a painting which will be on display at the Members Show. GEORGE FARRELL special to County Life

You can see Ameline's paintings at the upcoming Members Show at the Agnes Jamieson Gallery. The Members Show features the recent works of members of the Minden Hills Cultural Centre who also happen to be artists. Their works will line the hallways and smaller rooms of the gallery, while the big room will be dedicated to the 25 paintings of Ameline. He earned the right to exhibit in the big room by winning the Curator's Choice Award at the Members Show, two years ago.

Ameline has divided his paintings into four categories: The Arctic, Music and Musicians, Still Lifes and Ontario. All the works are colourful abstracts which deftly interpret the salient points of the subject in a manner that projects each painting as a frame in Ameline's ongoing and ever-changing movie of his life, as he sees it, and as he wants you to see it.

Due to Ameline's paintings and the diversity of offerings from the other artists, this year's Members Show is an exhibition not to be missed. The official opening, at the Agnes Jamieson Gallery in Minden, takes place on May 5 at 4:30 p.m., and the exhibition is ongoing until June 3. Gallery hours are from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday.

Wilberforce ready for its close-up on CBC

SUE TIFFIN
County Life Staff

One day soon, CBC viewers might be tuning in to see Highlands East Reeve Dave Burton on a side-by-side, taking the host of Still Standing to breakfast at the Wilberforce Legion.

The comedy/reality series, hosted by Jonny Harris, is coming to town from May 11 through 15 to interview locals and feature Wilberforce on an upcoming episode.

"We are extremely proud of this happening in our municipality," said Burton. "And we're extremely pleased they picked us."

The process for Wilberforce to be chosen for the show required much effort from town residents and township staff.

The show producers wanted to know about the history of the town, new businesses in town, the old veneer plant, old businesses, attractions in the town and interesting people.

One day soon, CBC viewers might be tuning in to see Highlands East Reeve Dave Burton on a side-by-side, taking the host of Still Standing to breakfast at the Wilberforce Legion.

The comedy/reality series, hosted by Jonny Harris, is coming to town from May 11 through 15 to interview locals and feature Wilberforce on an upcoming episode.

"We are extremely proud of this happening in our municipality," said Burton. "And we're extremely pleased they picked us."

The process for Wilberforce to be chosen for the show required much effort from town residents and township staff.

The show producers wanted to know about the history of the town, new businesses in town, the old veneer plant, old businesses, attractions in the town and interesting people.

"We told them, we don't have a lot of famous people, but we do have really interesting, and really valuable, and very neat people," said Mary Barker of Agnew's General Store. "We said, 'we have a large population of people over 80 who still shovel their roofs, live alone, bake pies, and do community work. You should come and meet all of those interesting people we have.'"

Barker said the first year the show came calling, Wilberforce wasn't picked. But then this year, the show producers reached out to the town again. The next thing Barker knew, she had received a message from the township office saying the producers had booked Lloyd Watson Centre on May 15 for the show's Wilberforce episode finale.

Still Standing producers were recently in town to research the area and interview residents, some who will appear on the show. Anne Francis, a producer on the show, said a colleague found Wilberforce friendly and welcoming.

"She came home saying, 'that town is full of optimistic people, despite their challenges, who fiercely love where they live.'"

The award-winning show features rural towns across Canada that have survived despite a setback – often fading industry, natural disaster or population decline. Usually towns have few residents, except in the case of fire-ravaged Fort McMurray, which will be featured in the upcoming season.

"Everybody's excited," said Barker, who will appear on the show to highlight the general store and geocaching in the area, recognized as the Geocaching Capital of Canada.

"Wilberforce came across our radar first because of its geocaching angle," said Francis in an email. "Wilberforce has lost so much in terms of industry and infrastructure but no one can take away the beauty of its natural environment. Geocaching seems like a great way to draw outsiders and introduce them to the area."

The show's host, Harris, is known as a stand-up and sketch comedian, former writer for This Hour Has 22 Minutes and as Constable George Crabtree on The Murdoch Mysteries. The show will follow him as he interviews locals, learns about the history of the area, tries a local delicacy and experiences an adventure.

At the end of a few days of filming, Harris performs a stand-up routine based on the stories he has heard. The stand-up show draws a lot of laughs while also informing a live audience and viewers at home about the resiliency of small towns. Some of the audience members are shown on the program.

"We like to call it a toast to the town," said Francis.

Barker noted the show's producers were interested in the recent closure of the town's bank. Earlier this year, Scotiabank closed branches in Wilberforce and nearby Maynooth in a move toward promoting online and mobile banking. Wilberforce residents – many who said they didn't have access to computers or the Internet – responded passionately and vowed to remain vibrant despite the loss.

Erik Morrison, a 14-year-old entrepreneur, said in researching the show, producers had asked him about his opinion of the bank closure in a pre-show interview. Morrison created Erikord Survival, a paracord products company, in 2012, when he was 10.

"They asked about how I started, about the business, and just to explain about myself," said Morrison. "I liked it, I thought it was fun."

Morrison said for his segment on the show, he'll be taking Harris fishing in Dark Lake using a Fishing Survival Kit, part of his product line. He suggested the idea to show producers when they asked how he could spend his time with the host in the area.

"During my school lunches in Grade 8, we'd go to the public dock and fish off the dock," he said. "We caught 20 to 30 fish there in 20 minutes once on a record day."

Despite being nervous, Morrison is looking forward to the experience to showcase his town as well as his company.

The show can provide a tourism boost after being featured to a big audience. A map on the CBC Still Standing website offers fans the chance to route and plan a road trip based on towns featured in each of the three seasons. More than 53,000 fans have liked the Still Standing Facebook page.

"Any kind of good publicity is welcome," said Barker.

"It's finally set in that something really exciting is going to happen here," said Burton.

The wrap-up Still Standing comedy show is free and open to anyone aged 14 and older. It's being held May 15 at the Lloyd Watson Centre in Wilberforce, which holds about 200 people. Doors open at 6 p.m., the show starts at 6:30.

The comedy show is expected to take approximately one and a half hours to film, with no intermission. Entry is first come, first served, and organizers are hoping to fill the hall.

Season 3 of Still Standing begins on June 27 at 8 p.m., and includes episodes about Ontario towns Mattawa, South River, and Norwood.

The Wilberforce episode is expected to air in 2018.

What we do at Transat Travel

Hello and welcome to spring – it sure has taken its own sweet time getting here!

Machenzie has just returned from a wonderful destination wedding. (Congratulations to Machenzie and Mitchell!) in Puerto Vallarta. In an upcoming column she will describe the beautiful resort, Grand Marival, where the wedding was held. I am off soon to Venice and a one-week Adriatic and Aegean Sea cruise with Transat and Costa Cruises – with new ports of call for me – Trieste, Corfu and Dubrovnik. I will be sure to include some photographs and port descriptions in my next column.

I thought I would take this opportunity to tell our readers what exactly Machenzie and I do here at Transat Travel. One of the most common questions is do you sell any product or just Transat?

The answer is although Transat is our preferred supplier to the south and Europe destinations, we sell all airlines and tour operators.

Do you need a quick flight within Canada or around the world? We price best fares and routings with all airlines. Need a hotel for one night in Prague? Done, and I can tell you the best area of this city to stay in, and include breakfast with your hotel stay.

Machenzie and I are also very busy selling the very popular River Cruises of Europe. Emerald, Scenic, Viking, AMA Waterways and Uniworld just to name a few. I have been fortunate enough to have experienced two uniquely different river cruises – the Douro River of Portugal with Uniworld and Tulip Time – Amsterdam – Bruges, Ghent, and including the stunning Kuekenhof Gardens with AMA Waterways. This is one of the largest flower gardens in the world – located just outside Amsterdam. Machenzie will be cruising from Basel to Amsterdam later this summer with Viking Cruise Lines. This itinerary is the most popular routes offered by all the River Cruise Companies .Participating on these various river cruise journeys certainly educates us, as travel counsellors, and we pass this knowledge on to our clients making sure they are booked on the right ship and right itinerary that fits their wishes

LINDA CONEYBEARE
Transat Travel

One very popular itinerary offered is the Christmas Markets River Cruise. Yes, it's November and cold but it is also stunningly beautiful with each town decorated for Christmas, and all the shops and stalls festooned with lovely lights. If you have ever had the chance to visit Toronto's Distillery District for their Christmas market imagine it 100 per cent more beautiful. Those are the Christmas Markets either on a river cruise, or on a guided coach tour offered by reliable tour companies such as Trafalgar and Insight Vacations.

One of the most important components of a vacation whether it is to an all-inclusive resort in the Caribbean, or a river cruise described above is to make sure you have travel insurance.

Machenzie and I here at Transat Travel always recommend this, and can offer Manulife Insurance whether it is medical coverage outside Canada, airfare cancellation and interruption, baggage protection many types of insurances policies are offered. We always add insurance when we travel ourselves. My most recent trip to Key Largo in January with my daughter and family is a good example of why you should always have insurance:

The checked infant car seat was damaged on our return flight. Manulife approved our claim the same day, and a cheque was received by my daughter just a few weeks later reimbursing her in full for a brand new car seat. With the insurance that cost approximately $40 Levi received a new car seat valued at $300.

Some comments we get from prospective clients is we will just a rent a car and drive around when we get there. I can tell you from experience that can be a very stressful and more expensive way of travel.

With the exchange rate from Canadian Dollars to Euros and U.S. dollars it is most cost effective when you can prepay as much as possible in advance in Canadian dollars. That is when the guided vacations offered in Europe and elsewhere is, in my opinion, the best way to tour. There are many different types of guided vacations offering easy pace, multiple nights in each city, and focusing on just one region if that is what you prefer

So you can see, Machenzie I offer the world –whether it's a great beach destination for the middle of the unending winter a new experience like Amazing Iceland, or a river cruise in Europe. Wherever you want to go we will get you there!

Arrivederci! More when I am back from Venice!

Top 10 things to do when the Internet is out

STEVE GALEA
Humour Columnist

The other day, across much of Canada, a certain cable company messed up and, as a result, a lot of people had no Internet for much of the day. In the old days, when Internet was a phrase used in Quebec to describe where you wanted your hockey team to put the puck, this would have been no problem. These days, however, is causes people to curl up in fetal positions – which in the old days described where you put your cowboy boots just before the square dance started. In any case, having no Internet is serious for many of us. Here are 10 ways to get through it.

1. Pretend you are part of a 1978 re-enactment group.
2. Take the time to answer all the snail mail that you've ignored for the last 10 years.
3. Draw Facebook posts, go to the post office and mail them to all your Facebook friends.
4. Enter a cryogenic storage facility until the crisis is over.
5. Go to a place where there is normally no Internet coverage and finally enjoy it.
6. Get all your useless facts the old fashioned way; read the encyclopedia.
7. Rent a mega-phone and yell out 140 character tweets.
8. Stockpile selfies and plan on spending the weekend posting them.
9. Have fun sneaking up behind other people and saying, "You've got mail!"
10. Get your eyes re-accustomed to looking at things that are not on computer or phone screens.

Animal scents

JAMIE JAMIESON
Special to County Life

Twas the night before camping,
When all through the cottage
Not a creature was stirring,
In our solar powered wattage
The camp gear was hung by the flashgun with care
Praying a sound could not be a bear
While visions of animals danced in our heads,
Mamma packed bandages, and I took a nap
When out on the lawn there arose such a clatter
I sprang from my sleep to see the matter
Kicked open the door, flashlight in hand
Spraying the light across the land
When what to my eyes something appeared
What the ….what the….
Tiny little ears, and flashing green eyes
I knew in a moment it was a surprise
I once saw one in the Highland Grove Museum
Funny, I guess, but there you could see 'um
It's furry and cute, got great claws
If you live 60 years, you may never see 'um
You can whistle and shout, know environmental laws
But in Highland Grove, we've got it on 'paws'.

This poem is over, it has great rhymes
Read it again, maybe three times
You knew in a moment it wasn't St. Nick
Although furry and cute, he's manicured slick
Nick flies through the air, doesn't climb trees
Doesn't eat cats, this you'll agree
It can't play hockey, can't even skate
Say it's Canadian, eh, win that debate
Its name is misleading, it can't even fish
Porcupines hate it, hide is a wish
Ready to guess, you know it is due
Think of an answer, maybe it's true.
So put away your wildlife fear
Visit us once, you'll have a great year.

Apology to Clement Moore

The Highland Grove Museum, the smallest museum in Haliburton, is attempting to build up a selection of animals that most people only see at a distance, if at all. These animals, all processed by way of taxidermy, allow visitors a close examination of often very rarely seen specimens. The fisher, outlined in the poem, is the only natural predator of porcupines. And, contrary to popular belief, it does not flip over a porcupine, but actually attacks the head.

Fishers mate around April, but pregnancy is delayed until the following February. After gestation of under two months, approximately one to four kits are born.

Fishers love cats. To eat, that is! A cat can climb a tree, but so can a fisher. In fact, the back paws can rotate approximately 180 degrees, so the fisher can climb down a tree head first. Around Highland Grove the fishers are controlling the cat population.

Now that you're interested, you can view one up close. In Highland Grove we serve you the most.

Festival captures joy of performance

Nervous anticipation, beautiful music and warm applause filled the Northern Lights Performing Arts Pavilion recently as more than 140 performances were heard during the three-day Haliburton Highlands Music Festival. This year marked the 20th time that local music students have showcased their talents before a supportive audience and an expert adjudicator, who offered advice to help performers improve their abilities and musicality.

Guy Few, a concert pianist, trumpeter, university professor and frequent performer in the Haliburton concert series, shared his profound musical knowledge, infectious enthusiasm and delightful sense of humour with performers who included string and woodwind players, vocalists, pianists and ensembles.

It was the third time that Few has adjudicated the non-competitive festival, which celebrates the joy of musical performance and gives local music students, including a growing number of adults, an opportunity to display the fruits of diligent practice.

The festival concluded Thursday, April 27 with a Highlights Concert that showcased the broad range of music making that were heard during the three days of adjudicated performances.

At the conclusion of the concert, a number of scholarships, funded through the generosity of many local donors, were be presented to deserving students.

Rail Trail Rambles continue through May

Rail Trail Rambles offer a fun, family-friendly way to enjoy the Haliburton County countryside during the spring. Rambles take place on Sundays. Photo by George Farrell

Special to County Life

The Rail Trail Rambles take place on Sundays in the spring, along rail beds in the Highlands where locomotives once sped. What makes these rambles, as opposed to hikes, so appealing is that they're 90 minute social events for people of all ages, and dogs.

It's very hard to talk to fellow hikers when you're manoeuvring along an uphill trail in single file, and you have to be careful where you place your feet.

Not so on the flat rail trails, where people can talk quite easily walking four abreast while setting their own pace.

Another social aspect of the rambles are the lunches which range from brown-bagging it, to stops at local or nearby restaurants.

These rambles, which were started in 2009 by Pamela Marsales, span the months from April 2 through May 28, and they are a delight for people of all ages who love nature. Spring flora such as mosses, lichens, cat-tails, and numerous wild flowers can be seen, and turtles, tadpoles, frogs, toads, beaver, snakes, numerous bird species and the occasional deer have also been observed.

In addition to the wildlife, several man-made historic structures, relating to the railroad, can be seen at various stops along each trail. These structures include rock culverts, bridges, and still-standing railway stations.

Five of the nine rambles have already been completed, but here is a brief outline of the remaining Sunday rambles.

The May 7 ramble is titled History of Donald, and it starts at the crossroads near The Little Tart bistro in Donald. This walk heads north from Donald and features wetlands, a big rock face, and beaver ponds. Lunch will be at McKeck's in Haliburton.

The Wilderness Habitat Walk, on May 14 starts at the Geeza Rd, south of Gelert, and heads south towards Kinmount. Expansive beaver ponds, and marshes on either side of the trail are spanned by curving railway embankments. Lunch will be at the historic Dominion Hotel in Minden.

On May 21 it's Howland Junction, where ramblers will meet at the end of the road and will then be walking north over the refurbished trestle bridge which is about 25 metres high and 100 metres long, and spans Kendrick's Creek.

Old stone abutments can also be seen. Lunch is a bring-your-own brown bag affair, but sharing is always a possibility.

The last ramble is on May 28, and people are to meet at the Railway Station in Kinmount, where they can see the model railroad, the sawmill, and discover the history of the area, including the Icelandic settlement, via a video in the sawmill and a kiosk outside it. It will be a brown bag lunch in the beautiful Austin Sawmill Heritage Park, overlooking the Burnt River.

Marsales suggests people gather at the required starting points at 10:50 a.m. because all rambles start at 11 a.m. sharp.

She also suggests that ramblers bring appropriate clothing and footwear, as well as bug spray, snacks and drinks, dog leashes and cameras.

The Rail Trail Rambles self-guided map is available at various locations around the county, but for addition information call or text 705-457-4767 or visit www.friendsoftherailtrail.ca.

Up River heads up to Haliburton

SUE TIFFIN
County Life Staff

Haliburton residents looking for coffee with a little oomph are now able to get a drink with their name on it.

The Hali Latte – Balzac's espresso, steamed milk and locally produced maple syrup – is on offer at Up River Trading Co.'s newest location at 211 Highland Street. The Haliburton location of the popular Minden cafe and gift shop opened on April 15 with a soft launch at the former location of the Highlands Pharmacy, which has moved next door.

"We feel that what we've built in Minden is a meeting place, an experience, and we want to bring the same to Haliburton," said Paul Roy, who co-owns the business with Mike McKeon. "The time is right now to expand into Haliburton."

The Minden business also expanded into the building next door on Bobcaygeon Road last summer.

"We've had great success and have been really supported and warmly received by the community," said Roy.

Roy said the stores will offer the same core assortment of products and menu items, but will offer unique items at each location as well, for customers to enjoy both spaces differently.

"It's the full experience – people can mingle over a cup of coffee, catch up with friends and shop for interesting gift items and accessories," he said.

Both Up River Trading Co. locations are open 8:45 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday to Saturday, and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Sunday. Hours will be extended during the summer months.

Up River Trading Company owners Paul Roy and Mike McKeon stand in front of their new store in Haliburton on Saturday, April 22, during the grand opening. McKeon and Roy already operate an Up River store in Minden. DAVID ZILSTRA Staff

Susanna Foo goes to the spa

Work has been done on the Haliburton Highlands Paddlers' dragon boat, the Susanna Foo, to get her ready for next season. The boat has been sanded and scraped while inside the Minden Curling Club and then taken outside for vacuuming outside the community centre in Minden. Back inside again for a first coat of paint on the floor of the boat and then four to five days of work varnishing the gunwales, seats and wooden sides.

The Paddlers have a new website, www.haliburtonhighlandspaddlers.ca, which includes a blog about the team and information about how you can join. The group is open to men and women over 14 years old. Photos courtesy of Robin Bell

HALIBURTON COUNTY ECHO

THE VOICE OF THE HIGHLANDS

10c PER COPY

HALIBURTON, ONTARIO THURSDAY, MAY 26TH, 1966

THIS WEEK'S PRESS RUN—2243

Established in 1882 as the Minden Echo & Haliburton Recorder

Flight Lieut. K. Taylor Retires

TRENTON, Ont. — Flight Lieutenant Keith Taylor retires from the RCAF after 25 years of Service.

Flight Lieutenant Taylor, the son of Mrs. Wm. Sedgwick and the late Mr. James Taylor, was born in Minden and received his early education at Minden High School. He completed his schooling at Lindsay Collegiate Institute in 1936 and enlisted in the RCAF in September 1940, in Toronto.

He served at RCAF Station Camp Borden as an Aircraftman until February 1942 when he was transferred overseas to No. 407 Squadron in the United Kingdom, where he served as a Corporal on Aircraft Maintenance until 1943. In July 1943 he was transferred to the RCAF Overseas Headquarters in London, where as a Sergeant, he maintained the aircraft flown by the Air Officer Commanding.

Returning to Canada in early 1946 he was released from the RCAF but re-enlisted as an aircraftman again in July 1947 at Trenton. He then established something of a record of tenure in one area as he remained at Trenton until March 1959, during which time he served in the following ranks: Aircraftman, Corporal, Sergeant, Flight Sergeant and Flying Officer. During this period he served on Aircraft Mainteance and on the staff of Training Command Headquarters.

In March 1959, F/L Taylor was transferred to No. 1 Air Division Headquarters in Metz, France in the Organization and Management branch where he remained until 1963. In July 1963 he returned to Trenton to the staff of the Management Information Systems branch at Air Transport Command Headquarters where he served until his retirement.

Married to the former Isabella C. Wishart of Kirkcaldy, Scotland and the father of two children, Barbara Lynn, 20, and Keith Jeffrey, 18, he has lived in Brighton while stationed at Trenton. He expects to move this summer to Toronto.

Danny Roberts Invited To Tryout With Hamilton

Danny Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Les Roberts of Haliburton, received word this week from Mr. James Skinner, head scout and farm director of the Detroit Red Wings, issuing him an invitation to attend their Hamilton Junior 'A' camp which will take place in Hamilton this fall.

Danny played this year with the Haliburton Junior 'D' team in the Central Ontario Junior Hockey League, and he also played with the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School team. If accepted by the Hamilton Red Wings, the Detroit Red Wings have promised to pay for his schooling, including High School, Business College or McMaster University.

We join his many friends in wishing him a most successful hockey career.

C of C Meeting Wednesday June 8

The Annual Meeting of the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce Incorporated will be held in the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School, Haliburton, Ontario, on Wednesday, June 8th, 1966 at 8:00 p.m.

Speaker of the evening will be Mr. Douglas C. Sadler, President of the Federation of Ontario Naturalists. His subject will be "Our National Assets". Non-members of the Chamber are invited to attend.

Local Public School Students Present 'Oliver' This Weekend

8 from the Lakeview Public School at Haliburton will proudly present the Broadway musical play "Oliver" at the Arena Auditorium at Haliburton this Friday and Saturday nights, May 27 and 28.

The directors and cast of the play invite you and your friends to attend one or both nights, and guarantee that you will be delighted with their play. Even those who are not particularly fond of musical drama of the Broadway variety spoke of having been enthralled by last year's preview of "Oliver". The music is exciting and tuneful, and the dialogue and action of the drama is fast-moving, with a good many humourous scenes as well as serious and tragic parts — a variety to suit every taste and mood.

The plot of the drama is based on Charles Dickens' immortal novel "Oliver Twist", in which the great author tried to shock the British public and parliament into action to remedy the crime, brutality and extreme poverty caused by the Industrial Revolution of the late 19th century, especially in the big cities like London and Manchester. The story concerns Oliver Twist, a young orphan boy who was brought up in a workhouse and apprenticed to a brutal master. He ran away, and was taken in, starving, from the London streets by Fagin, a master criminal who corrupted homeless children by teaching them the tricks of a professional thief. Oliver's various adventures (or rather misadventures) and his final rescue back to a normal life, occupy the remainder of the story.

"Oliver" was given its Canadian premiere performance last May, when the original Broadway cast presented it at the O'Keefe Centre, Toronto's fine theatre for the performing arts. It is being staged this spring in one of the bigger collegiates in Toronto. It is a musical drama ideally suited for presentation by children since it is essentially a drama about children.

Starring in the title role in our Haliburton production will be George Thayer as Oliver. Two of the biggest parts will be taken by Jwayne Roberts as Nancy, and Gregory Brown as Fagin. Other important roles will be played by

Golden Slipper Opens For 1966

The Slipper opened for the thirteenth year Saturday night to a capacity crowd, also the same for the Mid-Night Frolic.

The Fabulous Telstars in their new blue uniforms, white shirts and black bow ties were outstanding and tied in with the wonderful music these boys produce, receiving big applause on their entrance, as well as through out the entire evening.

The Golden Slipper has been and is a place, over the past 30 years, where a great number of people from Haliburton and vicinity and elsewhere met the girl or boy that was to be and is their husband or wife, and today the greater part of those enjoying dancing at the Slipper are the sons and daughters who first met at the Slipper.

Not long ago it was suggested to Mr. Al Perrin, owner and manager, to have a special evening for the parents who first met at the Slipper. Al says it was a nice suggestion and is arranging a date when most of them are back home or can get back for the occasion. You will hear more about this later.

The Slipper will be open every Saturday night and the Fabulous Telstars will be playing.
